SHIPWRECKED PERSONS RESCUED OUT AT SEA

New York, June 2.—On the arrival of the steamship City of Savannah here it was learned that she had been in communication by wireless telegraph with the Merchants & Miners steamship Merrimac off Cape Romaine.

The Merrimac reported picking up two ship's boats loaded with persons from a wrecked vessel.

The wireless failed to give the name of the vessel wrecked or the number rescued, or to tell whether there had been any lives lost.

Because of the thick fog that prevailed here Saturday, Sunday and Monday, it is feared that some ship has met with a disaster, the details of which have not yet been made known.

IRISH ORDERS HONOR VISITING CARDINAL

New York, June 2.—Two Irish societies, the Catholic Benevolent legion and the New York Municipal Council of the United Irish League of America, met at Archbishop Farley's house last night, and each presented Cardinal Logue with mementoes of his visit here.

The Catholic Benevolent legion's gift was a large American flag. In accepting it Cardinal Logue said:

"Though I always have been proud of my countrymen, I have never been so proud of them as I have since I came here to America. I know the respect and affection the Irish Catholics have for that banner. They love the flag."

The second presentation took the form of an illuminated address signed by fifty prominent members of the United Irish League. In response Cardinal Logue said:

"I am sincerely grateful for this beautiful address. There is additional reason why we should be grateful, for whenever any cause is promoted for the welfare of Ireland we are always sure of our countrymen in America supporting it."

Infuriated Italian Depositors Fear Savings Are Completely Lost

Cleveland, Ohio, June 2.—Five hundred infuriated Italians stormed the closed doors of the private banking house of Gaetano Liotta, Grange street, today and had it not been for police interference would have forced an entrance. As soon as the doors of the bank failed to open at the accustomed time this morning the bank was surrounded by Italians. Rumors flew fast, and men, women and children flocked to the place where the bank had deposited their savings.

The crowd threatened to break in the doors and a riot call was turned in. A squad of policemen soon arrived and drove back the excited Italians. Liotta, it is said, cannot be found. The total deposits do not amount to more than $83,000.

"Japan is taking all possible measures to stop emigration of laborers to the United States," said Mr. Takahira. "These newly adopted measures have, however, not been in force a sufficient length of time as yet and so matters may not be quite as well adjusted as they will be in the near future."

"The treatment is experimental," said Senator Gore today. "I will continue with the treatment for a week and if there is any improvement Dr. Wilmer will perform a slight operation on the crystalline lens. My longer stay is dependent on there being no opposition to my returning to the senate. The nominations close on June 16."

ENGLISH LANGUAGE TO BE DEAD ONE IN TWO THOUSAND YEARS

In an article on "A Substitute for the Classics," in the School Review, issued yesterday by the University of Chicago Press, Professor Scott intimates that Timbuctoo will be the world capital and that Bantu will be the common language.

English is superior to Latin and Greek, but inferior to Bantu, he declares.

BOER WAR HERO DEAD

London, June 2.—Gen. Sir Redvers Henry Buller, who had been ill for some weeks past, is dead. He was born in 1839.

Gen. Sir Redvers Buller, commander of the British forces in South Africa during the Boer war and the martial idol of the English people, was decidedly a man of action. At the time of the outbreak of the Boer war General Buller was probably the most talked-of man in the world. In every nation upon the globe his name was discussed with unwonted freedom. There were thousands and thousands of men who had never heard of General Buller who suddenly came almost to know him. Newspapers all over the world printed great stories of his valor and prowess and used his picture upon every available occasion. But through it all the sturdy English soldier kept his steady peace and spoke no word.

General Buller grew up in the army. The barrack room was his early home; the sounds of camp were the sounds familiar to his ear; the smells familiar to his nostrils. He saw much hard service in Sudan and Egypt, and won his spurs by dogged pluck and determination.

He was an ambitious soldier and he rose steadily and surely. At 19 he entered the military service and from that time on practically until his death he was active in handling the martial affairs of England.

WINS FORTUNE AT A SALE: PAYS $1,000 AND DRAWS $84,503

New York, May 30.—There was sold at auction today, at the weekly Muller sale of securities, a tin box, said to contain maps, profiles, surveys, etc., of the Chesapeake Western railroad and some miscellaneous securities, with a face value of $84,550, for $1,000. It was purchased by an unidentified spectator.

The entire outstanding capital stock of the Chesapeake Western railway, as well as its bonds, was sold at the Muller auction sales four weeks ago and realized $25,000. The securities offered were $149,000 of first mortgage 4 per cent bonds, $908,000 preferred stock and $841,200 common stock, the total par value being $2,857,000. Along with them was offered $500,000 of Pocahontas company first mortgage bonds. Today there were 5,000 shares of the Pocahontas company, fifty shares of the Midland Railway company, and $75,500 of first mortgage bonds of the Washington, Cincinnati & St. Louis railroad sold along with the box of "said to contain" contents, for $1,000.

The Chesapeake Western is a small road in Virginia, which leases another road known as the Chesapeake & Western, both lines owning between them sixty-eight miles. The Chesapeake Western railway is in turn owned by the Chesapeake Western company. Last week the new owners of the road elected W. E. Stokes president, to succeed Robert McMillan, Gillespie, and A. H. Gleason vice president. The same interests were probably the purchasers of today's securities.

Railroad reference books give no clue as to what or where the other railroad companies are. There are several Midland railroads, one in New Jersey, one in New England, and another in Indiana. All have passed through bankruptcy and been taken over into other railroads.
